PULLER CRADLE

THE NOYES FAMILY.

James and Nicholas Noyes came to New England from Choul-derton, in Wiltshire, England, in the brig "Elizabeth," in 1634.

They were descended from a Knight by the name of James, who was with William at the battle of Hastings, in the year 1060.
The chief or head of this family, came to England from Normandy, and was with King Richard (Cœur-de-leon) in the Holy Land.

Their father's name was William, who was instituted as rector in the diocese of Salisbury in 1602, but resigned in 1620. The mother was sister of the Rev. Robert Parker, called a very learned Puritan, who was driven to Holland for his disinclination to adopt Queen Elisabeth's forms.

James was a clergyman. He was born in 1608, and was educated at Oxford. After his arrival in this country he preached one year at Medford. He was also invited to preach at Watertown. In May, 1635, he removed to Newbury, and was colleague to the Rev. Thomas Parker. He was among the first settlers of the town, and soon after his location there he erected a dwelling-house, which is still standing, and is owned by one of his descendants, (Silas Noyes, Esq). Previous to leaving England he married Sarah, daughter of Joseph Brown, of Southampton. He died Oct. 22, 1656, aged 48 years, leaving nine children.

(1) NICHOLAS was born in 1616. He came to Ipswich in 1634.
In May, 1635, he removed to Newbury. He was representative from that town. He married Mary, daughter of Capt. John Cutting.

They had thirteen children. Mary b 1641—time of death
